

JAPS PLAN TO TRY OWN WAR CRIMINALS

Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

The little yarn I carried recently about the excavating work for the new Co-op building on South Fayette and Main streets, disclosing many feet of cinders and refuse had been dumped into the swamplands which formerly occupied the site, has brought forth an interesting sidelight.

I am unable to give names as my informant did not recall them, but he stated that in the early days when drainage was by open ditch, such a ditch was cut from Paint Creek up through what is now the main part of the city, and to insure the water flowing the right way in the open ditch, a hog-trough that had been cut from a log was filled with water and dragged over the surface as a leveling device. The tilt of the water in the trough showed how deep to dig the ditch and stakes were set accordingly.

They held a fair in South Solon a few days ago, and the total receipts, $5, was sent to help the war sufferers in Europe.

It's quite a story, and I think I'll let someone else tell you all about it. The following letter describing the fair was written by Jo-Anne Murray, aged 11 years, and follows:

"Dear Wash Fayette—
This is your Record-Herald carrier in South Solon dropping you a line to let you know that South Solon had a fair in our backyard. And we really made some money.

"Around 10 youngsters in our neighborhood, ranging in age from 4-13 years, and who thoroughly enjoy fairs, decided to try our luck and so with the help of Daddy and Mother, we built tents, booths, etc. Then we canvassed the town for all knick-knacks people were willing to donate and we gave those for prizes for the lucky ones who threw balls, darts, etc. Popcorn and Cool-aid was served for 5 cents.

"At the conclusion of the fair, a stage show including songs, dances, and comedy acts were given free. Each one who helped with the fair earned a ticket to the show and a bag of popcorn. Five dollars was sent to help the war victims in Europe.

"We all had a good time and hope some youngsters in the war torn countries will benefit from our fair!"

Here's good news for the men who have been scared half to death much of the time during the past two years or more, by reason of having no shirt tails.

Long shirt tails are coming back, says an official announcement of the War Production Board, which has revoked the original order to lop off three or more inches of shirt-tails and otherwise restrict men's shirts to eliminate all of the "frills" such as more than one pocket.

Now manufacturers can make shirts that will have tail-length sufficient so they will not creep up above the belt line.

Also that order prohibiting cuffs on men's trousers, which resulted in many inches of trousers being cut off and discarded that could have been fashioned into cuffs without waste, has been rescinded.

That order, it seems, was just about as practical as the order prohibiting the slicing of bread, which was quickly revoked when millions of people set up a howl for their sliced bread!

SHIRLEY WILL WED SERGEANT TONIGHT

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19.—(P)—Shirley Temple, the "Little Miss Marker" of yesteryear, today becomes the grown-up bride of tall, blond and handsome Sgt. John Agar, 24, of the U. S. Air Forces.

The ceremony in the Wilshire Methodist Church tonight will be the culmination of a friendship which began two years ago at a house party given by Zasu Pitts.

When the 17-year-old actress announced her engagement last April, her mother added there would be no wedding for several years. Then Sgt. Agar received word he was to be shipped overseas soon and plans were changed.

"But they're not going to make a circus out of my wedding," Shirley insisted as she made arrangements for a simple wedding, attended only by close friends.

DEMOBILIZATION SPEED ASSURED BY PRESIDENT

Battle Over Jobs and Jobless Benefits Nears End - - And Administration Defeat

By MAX HALL
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—President Truman's supporters in the Senate fought today to save two links in his peacetime program.

They argued in favor of more dollars a week for unemployed—and against immediate return of the U. S. Employment Service to the states.

Those were the major points up for decision as the Senate's debate over unemployment pay moved toward a climax.

There seemed a strong chance the Truman forces would be defeated in Senate voting on both questions. The House hasn't debated the unemployment pay bill yet.

Aside from unemployment, Congress busied itself with these subjects:

1. Demobilization. The uproar continued. Critics of Army-Navy efforts to bring the boys back home said gleefully General MacArthur has put the Army on the spot.

The general said in Tokyo the occupation army might be cut to 200,000 in six months. Washington officials had estimated the figure much higher. Many in Congress think a smaller army in Japan means faster discharges, slower drafting.

Yesterday the House passed a bill to attract more recruits for the Army and Navy by making military life more appealing. Today a similar proposal was taken up by the Senate naval committee.

2. Pearl Harbor. The committee to investigate the 1941 disaster was looking for a lawyer today. The group held its first meeting yesterday and elected Senator Barkley (D-Ky) chairman.

Barkley said he wants a legal counsel with a big reputation who will work for a little salary.

3. Hirohito. A proposal by Senator Russell (D-Ga) that the Japanese emperor be arrested and tried as a war criminal was received with some reserve in the Senate. Several senators said they would rather leave these matters to MacArthur. Some, however, agreed strongly with Russell.

President's Views
President Truman declared today there would be "no padding in our armed forces" and "no one is going to be held in the service a day longer than is necessary."

The president said in a statement no one can accurately forecast the future military needs and noted that General MacArthur had revised his own estimates of the number of troops necessary for the occupation of Japan and Korea.

MacArthur first estimated he required a force of 500,000, but (Please Turn to Page Six)

SLAYER GIVES UP TO EATON SHERIFF

He's One of Two Who Stabbed Bartender To Death

EATON, O., Sept. 19.—(P)—Tillman Laswell, 42, one of two brothers sought on murder warrant in the knife-slaying of Edgar Settles, Richmond, Ind., during a tavern brawl Sept. 2, surrendered today, Sheriff L. C. Galyean announced.

Galyean said Laswell routed him from bed about 4 A. M. by telephoning from a nearby restaurant.

"I'm one of the Laswell brothers and want to give up," Galyean quoted him as saying.

He quoted Laswell as saying his brother, Arlie—also named in a murder warrant—was "in a bad way" from leg and head wounds received when Forest Kenney, proprietor of the place, fired upon the men, as, with the aid of an accomplice, they fled the scene of the slaying.

Laswell told him that after his brother was treated for his wounds, the pair drove to Arizona and New Mexico but returned to this area because of Arlie's worsening condition.

Three Superforts Over Canada In Non-Stop Flight from Japan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Three Superfortresses flying non-stop from Japan to Washington flew over Edmonton, capital of Alberta Province, Canada, at 4:01 P. M., E. W. T., yesterday and is expected to land them at Washington at 6 P. M. today.

The world non-stop record is 7,158 miles between Egypt and Australia, established by British fliers in 1938, averaging 149 mph.

Lord Haw Haw To Die; Guilty as War Criminal

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(P)—William Joyce, Lord Haw Haw of the German radio, was convicted of treason in Old Bailey today and sentenced to hang.

A jury of 10 men and two women required less than 25 minutes to arrive at a verdict after Justice Tucker had ruled Haw Haw had left this country in 1939 "wrapped up in the Union Jack" in order to carry on German propaganda.

The justice informed the jurors Joyce was not a British subject but nevertheless he owed allegiance to the British crown when he left the country because of the

M'ARTHUR REBUKED?

State Department Says It Will Set Occupation Policy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Acting Secretary of State Acheson said today the United States government and not General MacArthur is formulating American policy for the pacification and control of Japan.

Acheson avoided specific mention of MacArthur's name at a news conference. But in sharp sentences he stated his view that the "occupation forces are the instruments of policy and not the determinant of policy" for Japan. His declaration was the latest in a round of incidents involving the White House, War Department and State Department since MacArthur surprised them two days ago by announcing the occupation army in Japan could be cut to 200,000 in six months.

NO ADMISSION CHARGES FOR WESLEYAN SPORTS

protection afforded him by a British passport. This was despite his American birth and the fact that Joyce later took out German citizenship.

Joyce will make an immediate appeal, his lawyers announced.

The army airforces said the B-29 flight would set a mark for multi-engine speed aircraft.

At 9 A. M., E. W. T., Lt. Gen. Barney M. Giles, commander of the flight, radioed the three big bombers were 120 miles south of Watson Lake, Yukon territory, Canada, which is almost 400 miles past the midway point at White Horse, Canada.

Army officials said here the flight should have no difficulty in arriving in the capital at 6 P. M., E. W. T., as Giles previously messaged he expected to do. There was a possibility of an earlier arrival, since a lightened gasoline load would step up the Superfortresses' speed.

As the planes roared over Canada, Gen. Giles kept in radio communication with air force headquarters here, relaying weather information and comments about members of the crews.

Among these, he told how James (Please Turn to Page Two)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—This is it—the post-war showdown of the new power of the unions. Behind the initial strides bestirring in Detroit and spreading through the country is a general uprising for a 20 to 30 percent wage increase. He has won the support of congressmen, civic and industrial leaders and his next step is to turn the enterprise over to a government-authorized commission. He hopes to accomplish this

Gov. Lausche Says He Will Not Appoint Himself as Successor; Truman's Political Strategy Becomes Center Of Capital Gossip

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—Swift Senate confirmation seemed assured today for three major appointments by President Truman. They are:

Senator Harold R. Burton, Ohio Republican, as Associate Justice of Supreme Court. He succeeds Republican Owen J. Roberts, resigned. Robert P. Patterson, present undersecretary, as Secretary of War. He succeeds Henry L. Stimson, resigned.

W. Stuart Symington as surplus property administrator. He takes over from a three-man board he formerly headed.

Congressional Republicans and Democrats alike got a lift out of Mr. Truman's unexpected choice of Burton for the Supreme Court—but for different reasons.

Republicans liked the selection of their 57-year-old Senate colleague because they regard him as a highly qualified lawyer and because he is one of them.

Democrats chuckled at the President's political strategy. Some said he was influenced in his choice by Robert E. Hannegan, Burton's exit from the Senate of Ohio, a Democrat, a chance to

NEW AUTHORITY FOR LABOR BOSS

Situation Is No Better in Oil And Auto Industries

By HAROLD W. WARD
By the Associated Press
Lewis B. Schwellenbach took over today as the government's labor "boss."

He held a presidential grant of broad new authority—although few new powers—to deal with industrial disputes.

President Truman shifted the War Labor Board, the U. S. Employment Service and the War Manpower Commission to the Labor Department, conferring all the authority inherent in those agencies on Secretary Schwellenbach.

Schwellenbach had presented his reorganization plan to Mr. Truman August 10. Yesterday's White House action was attributed to the labor storms which appeared to be gathering last week end over Detroit's automobile industry and elsewhere.

Oil Strike Spreads
A crippling strike against the nation's oil industry appeared gaining headway today, adding new thousands of workers to the more than 200,000 already away from their jobs over labor disputes across the country.

New groups of workers joined the strike lines today as the CIO Oil Workers' International Union pressed its demands for a 30 percent wage increase. O. A. Knight, union president, predicted the walkouts would extend to the entire industry. Continuance of the strike threatened to cut steel production in the big mills in the Chicago and Gary, Ind., area.

No new developments were reported in the labor situation in the Detroit area, where some 80,000 workers remained idle by strikes and layoffs. The CIO United Automobile Workers declared the union plans to go ahead with its strike in some automobile plants if wage increases of 30 percent (Please Turn to Page Six)

Both Democrats and Republicans in Ohio could benefit indirectly by the elevation of Senator Harold H. Burton to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Political observers took this view today as Gov. Frank J. (Please Turn to Page Six)

PROPHET IS AWAITING WORLD'S END FRIDAY

PASADENA, Calif., Sept. 19.—(P)—The Rev. Charles G. Long, white-haired leader of a religious group known as the "Remnants of the Church of God," has ended a 24-hour fast and today he and his flock were waiting for the end of the world which he predicts will occur Friday.

The Turkish-born prophet, who is 72, announced the exact time may be 5:33 P. M., Pacific War Time, or 7:33 A. M., Pacific War Time if the last coming is according to Jerusalem time.

However Rev. Long stated there is the possibility of a delay until Sept. 29 or even until the fall of 1946.

TROOP RETURN FROM JAPAN TO BE SPEEDED UP

Premier Condemns Atrocities And Says Emperor Not Among War Criminals

TOKYO, Sept. 19.—(P)—General MacArthur's headquarters announced today it would issue soon a new and lengthy list of suspected Japanese war criminals, while reliable Japanese sources predicted an imminent purge of reactionary elements in the cabinet of Premier Higashi-Kuni.

Premier Prince Higashi-Kuni himself yesterday told Allied correspondents his government intended to determine responsibility for starting the war and try its own accused, provided General MacArthur approved. There was no word from MacArthur's headquarters on whether the Japanese would be permitted to punish their own war criminals.

Emperor Defended
Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni told Allied correspondents he had no advance knowledge of Pearl Harbor, did not order execution of Doolittle's fliers, and does not consider Emperor Hirohito a war criminal.

The prince made those statements yesterday at a press conference, the first ever granted by any premier in a long time to foreign newspapermen.

He said some Japanese had been punished by the Nipponese army and navy for prison camp cruelties.

The premier said further that: He himself had protested, indirectly, Japanese atrocities.

He would inquire whether the emperor knew in advance of Pearl Harbor, and would inform the press.

Black Dragon Lives

The supposedly disbanded Black Dragon Society, long a sinister and powerful Japanese political organization, still maintains its headquarters here where former members come to talk to their chief "as individuals."

This was learned today, Al Dopping, AP correspondent, said, from Yoshida Kuzuu, the society's white-bearded chief secretary, who evades questions which might incriminate the society or disclose names of its members to American occupation forces.

"The 71-year-old Kuzuu told him all records of his society were destroyed in the May 25, 1945, Superfort firebomb raid," Dopping said.

The army of occupation is busy trying to convince the Japanese people they should welcome with open arms their sons, husbands and sweethearts who fell prisoners to American forces in the Pacific war.

The belief that capture was a disgrace beyond redemption was pounded into the people by the (Please Turn to Page Two)

HIGH SCHOOL DRAFT WILL BE CUT DOWN

Postponement Channels Open To Boys in School

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(P)—From now on most high school boys will not have to enter military service until they have been graduated.

The conditions required for postponement of induction are these:

1. A boy must have entered high school or a similar institution before he became 18.

2. His course of instruction must be pursued "continuously and satisfactorily."

If he meets these two conditions, he may ask for a draft board postponement until he has been graduated, or until he reaches his 20th birthday, whichever is sooner.

Selective Service also announced last night college or university students who enrolled before reaching 18 may have their induction delayed to complete the current school quarter or semester.

PLEASURE CLASS ADDED TO HORSE SHOW PROGRAM

Entries Are Limited to Horses and Riders in Fayette County

A strictly Fayette County class—the ladies' and gentlemen's pleasure class—has been added to the program already set up for the Fayette County horse show September 30.

The addition of the 21st class was made at a meeting of the horse show committee in the Record-Herald clubrooms Tuesday night. At the same meeting representatives of the Fayette County horse show and riders and horses appearing in any one of the other 20 classes will be barred from the new one, it was decided. Neither can horses in the pleasure class appear in any other competition.

There will be four prizes for the class, which will be in the afternoon show. The prizes are: $15, $10, $7.50 and $5. Entry fee is $2 and must accompany the entry to be in John Sagar's hands by Monday. His post office box number is 508.

Most of the classes in the show already are sponsored. Some trophies will be presented as well as cash prizes. Horsemen here are confident that the September 30 affair will be a show up to the standards set in Washington C. H. in years past.

THREE SUPERFORTRESSES ON NON-STOP FLIGHT, JAPAN - TO - WASHINGTON

T. Seaver, Jr., of Bronxville, N. Y., and First Lieut. Beverly K. Martin of Milwaukee, Ore., and Glenn E. Whitley of Canton, Tex., were "pulling baby shoes and snapshots from their pockets and wondering what their children, whom they had never seen, will be like."

He reported airmen in the three crews had accounted for the destruction of 30 enemy aircraft, probable destruction of 24 and damage of 19 during the war.

Giles added the three planes flew individually from Japan to Nome but met for their first rendezvous there at one minute intervals.

The flight is scheduled to enter the United States near Duluth, Minn. From there the route follows a course near Green Bay, Wis.; Lansing and Detroit, Mich.; Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

The giant bombers were stripped of armament and armor to lighten them for the terrific gas load and also to provide for the slightly oversized crews. Each plane had 12 men aboard to permit rotation of duties.

The army apparently was not attempting an official nonstop airline distance records. So far as could be learned there were no arrangements for official checkers.

ed for one day a second Tokyo newspaper—the English Language Nippon News.

The paper was ordered 30 minutes before press time to withhold publication if its Thursday morning edition because its editors had failed to submit for American censorship a printer's proof of an editorial on the recent change of foreign ministers.

Tuesday the big Japanese language paper, Ashahi, was ordered to skip publication for two days for printing inflammatory articles.

The Japanese predicting the cabinet resignations described Higashi-Kuni as personally interested in the gradual democratization of Japan and said Konoze and the others had opposed the premier's attempts to smooth relations between the Japanese and American governments.

The cabinet had been criticized by the Japanese press for delay in solving pressing problems such as food and housing shortages and unemployment.

Konoze, Obata and Ogata, the sources recalled, also had been associated with the war-minded segments of the Japanese government since 1937, Konoze as two-time premier.

Troops To Go Home

The American embassy residence got busy, making preparations for the expected arrival today of Mrs. Douglas MacArthur.

Out in the Pacific the largest carrier task force ever assembled was being formed into special "Carrier Division 24" to carry home the victorious dratted army of General MacArthur.

Tokyo newspapers today said Premier Higashi-Kuni will send an "envoy of apology" to China because of war crimes committed against that republic.

The gladsome task of demobilization will be carried out in part by at least 26 carriers.

Even so, the admiral estimated a year would be required to finish the work.

The first concern was to take out Allied prisoners of war. One ship, the transport Colbert, removing liberated groups from Manchuria, struck a floating mine 100 miles west of Okinawa. A check disclosed one man missing and two injured.

Another suicide by a high ranking Japanese military leader was reported today by Domei Agency. The agency said Gen. Shizuechi Tanaka, who succeeded Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma as commander in the Philippines, shot himself Aug. 24 because American air raids damaged one of the imperial palaces while he was responsible for the aerial defense of Tokyo. Homma is in prison.

the AFL unions, and even the moderate well-run railroad brotherhoods. The CIO auto workers and radicals are simply front-running for a cleverly planned and well financed campaign of unionization to up the take. AFL's mild William Green, for instance, told the Dubinsky garment workers he thought all labor should have just about this proposed wage advance.

Strange as it may sound in an inflation-scared administration, high official backing has heightened the national dilemma—but not backing by Mr. Truman. My inside information shows conclusively the president, while favorable in general to a high-wage, high-price policy, knew little of the developing ins and outs of this situation.

He certainly did nothing inside, or out, to encourage it. His director of economic stabilization, William H. Davis, however, held an unfortunate off-the-record press conference about two weeks back, which was practically an invitation to the unions to demand even a greater increase. While he did not permit direct quotation, the press unanimously reported he thought wages could be increased 50 percent "without increasing the price of manufactured goods." Nearly everyone spoofed this incredible assertion as petty political poppycock, except the union leaders, who seized it as a handy handle.

That much is known. If Mr.

Truman wants all the facts about a sub-rosa troublemaking, he should call each member of the War Labor Board on the carpet and ask if he has talked lately to union leaders, advising them that now is the time to go after wage increases.

The board has become a helpless but not hopeless nonentity. Its powers are doubtful. New Labor Secretary Schwellenbach has been sending no cases to it, and his disregard of it has become almost an established official position. The board in turn decided to consider nothing, except upon request of both employers and employees, which limited its power in a situation such as is arising, to practically zero.

Before these developments, the unions, particularly the radicals, had been campaigning exclusively on the unemployment line. All their propaganda focused upon getting legislation from Congress. It is true, the campaign was not proceeding satisfactorily and failed to generate much public enthusiasm, although Mr. Truman was behind it. The sudden switch back to the line of wage increases, strikes and shorter hours (the miners John L. Lewis is especially hitting this latter theme for his wage increases) caught the administration with its shoes off. Schwellenbach, for days after the start, was unable to move.

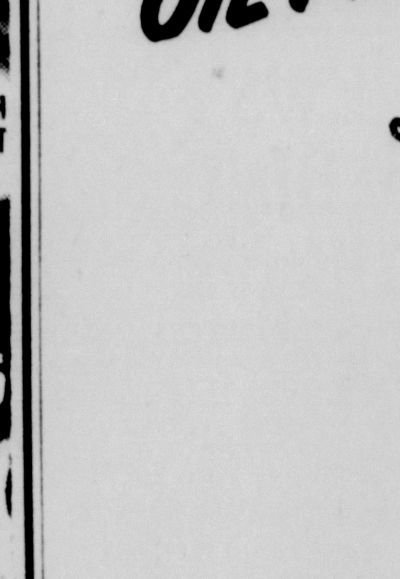

His initial publicity on assuming his post had been better than excellent. Indeed, Mr. Truman, himself, got off to a good start with the unions. Neither is popular or unpopular among the general run of union leadership, but both are favorably regarded.

Schwellenbach had planned a general industrial-labor national conference to meet the strike-wage-price condition everyone knew would arise eventually from the peace. It was to have been held two weeks ago under prodding from Republican Senator Vandenberg. The latest talk heard around the Labor Department is that hopes are held for such a convention in November, by which time the fires now visible may be in full blaze.

The only excuse I can find for the delay is that the labor leaders wanted to get some free rides to Europe this month. They passed word around they were going over to "line up the Communists." Tart observers suspected a "with" had been omitted before the word "Communists," and all agreed there was a grave question of who would line up whom, and whether the line would be prone or erect. At any rate, Hillman, Meany, et al. are all over there, and the Labor-Management Conference is an unfulfilled hope they caused to be delayed.

Yet the developing strike situation plainly shows this is not a condition to be settled by one plant, or even one industry. The unions are tactically presenting their campaign piecemeal, plant by plant, and no doubt are planning settlements on that basis, but the points raised are national in inflationary import, as well as all other phases (employment, prices, production, etc.)

The Labor-Management Conference had high on its unofficial agenda the question whether there should be another Federal Labor Board (CIO wants it). Its basic hope was to find a common mechanism for dealing with strikes which flaunt the public interest and do great injury to the nation.

Whether Messrs. Truman and Schwellenbach will move along this obvious line, or choose another

WORLD TODAY

—By DEWITT MACKENZIE—

Quietly but inevitably Moscow is staking claims to trusteeship over important Italian colonies which would extend Russia's already vast influence the length of the Mediterranean—long dominated by England.

This column a few days ago described the Mediterranean theatre as "one of the most important zones strategically on the face of the globe." I repeat it with emphasis, for Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov—who is in London for the conference of the Big Five Council of foreign ministers—has now not only made it clear that Russia is anxious to obtain a foothold on that great sea but has given us a lead as to the specific aims of the Soviet Union.

Mr. Molotov told the press yesterday that Russia is interested in Italian colonies, and that there's "a grain of truth" in the report that she wants sole trusteeship over the North African colony of Tripolitania. Then, in more positive strain, he added:

"I will not conceal Soviet interests in Eritrea" (the Italian colony lying on the Red Sea and adjoining Ethiopia).

Beyond that he didn't go. There have been rumors that Moscow seeks trusteeship over the Dodecanese Islands, which Greece wants returned to her. These lie at the mouth of the Aegean Sea and so are sentinels over the western entrance to the Dardanelles Strait that leads to the Black Sea. Moscow has remained silent on this point, but has been pressing for readjustment of Turkish control of the Dardanelles so as to guarantee Russia free passage of this role gateway between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean.

If you will look at your maps of the Mediterranean theatre, the picture of what is happening will be clear. Tripolitania is midway of the Mediterranean and is an important base. Eritrea, which lies at the southern mouth of the Red Sea, would be calculated to insure right of way through that body of water and the Suez Canal which connects it with the Mediterranean on the north. Add to this the fact that Tangier, on the southern shore of the narrow Strait of Gibraltar, is to be internationalized, and the set-up is complete.

Russia would be guaranteed freedom over the entire length of the Mediterranean—from the Aegean to the Atlantic—and through the Suez Canal route to the Far East.

Well, should all this materialize, what would be the likely effect on world-peace? The only safe answer is one based on facts and not on fancies. This is that peace demands that the Mediterranean be maintained as an international waterway, with free passage for all nations. Any conflict over control of this sea must precipitate another great upheaval.

The Big Three—America, Britain and Russia—recognize that world-peace rests largely on their shoulders. They have encountered many difficult problems, but have solved them with an eye to maintaining the alliance which led them to victory. Therefore it would be foolish of observers to create a bugbear of the Mediterranean situation, although we needn't overlook the potential dangers.

One hears it suggested speculatively that Russia may be raising the question of trusteeships in order to create bargaining points for settlement of differences among the Big Three in eastern Europe. Specifically, Russia doesn't like the government of Greece (sponsored by Britain), but does support the regimes of Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania (which the U. S. A. and England refuse to recognize). Russia also is backing Yugoslav demands for Italian territory.

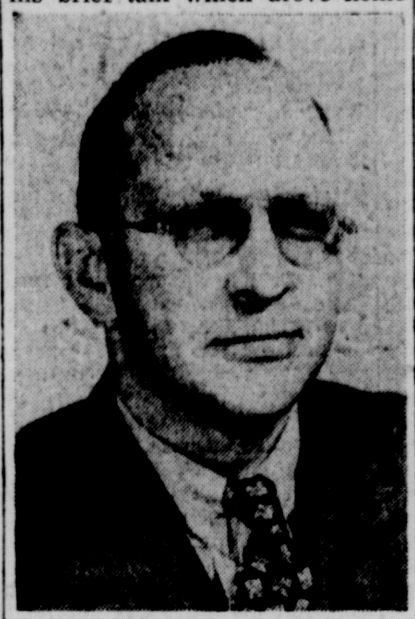

Of course there's a lot of horse-trading going on, but the signs long have been that Russia is bent on establishing herself as one of the Mediterranean powers. She

DISTRICT HEAD OF ROTARY HERE; CLUB IS PRAISED

Practical Service Given Community Emphasized in After-luncheon Talk

The practical side of Rotary in local communities and through its helpful and constructive influence in a world that is groping for understanding and solution of international problems was explained in simple, but effective and appealing language to Washington C. H. Rotarians and guests at their luncheon meeting Tuesday noon at the Country Club by Attorney William A. Miller, of Xenia, governor of the 159th district of Rotary International.

Governor Miller's audience was quietly but deeply impressed by his brief talk which drove home the lesson of "service above self" and the Golden Rule as few speakers who have appeared here have been able to do. Previous to the regular club luncheon the local Rotary Assembly was held. This is a meeting at which all committee chairmen make reports. These statements of work already done and plans for the future of the organization were turned over to Governor Miller in written form.

Following his introduction by Colin Campbell, past district governor, and during his talk to the club as a whole later, Governor Miller highly praised the work of the Washington C. H. club, declaring he could now readily understand why the club had been awarded highest district honors last year for outstanding service as an organization.

"If all clubs in this district were on their toes with a forward-looking program such as you have here, the district governor would have little or nothing to do. You have a right to be proud of your officers and your committee chairmen," Miller told the club membership.

"There is something about Rotary that is hopelessly purposeful and carries a steady influence is trying to break out of the Black Sea.

Poor Digestion? ☐ Headachy? ☐ Sour or Upset? ☐ Tired-Listless? ☐

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 25¢.

today in the midst of a world struggling in the chaos of postwar troubles," declared the speaker.

He related how Rotary has grown in its 40 years of life to 5400 clubs in 60 different countries with a quarter of a million members representing every race, creed and class.

"Rotary has been tested by every test the world can devise but still grows," Governor Miller declared. He told how clubs continued to meet in secret places in invaded countries during the war even though facing the death penalty for such meetings. It has brought about a definite interchange of ideas of leading representative men in all countries who are club members, he asserted, and it is this change of ideas, this striving for an understanding of what other people are thinking, and reasonable tolerance, which is the hope of the world if peace is not again to become a broken and helpless thing."

He recounted the high points of Rotary service and explained the very practical side of the organization's aims and objects. During the course of his talk the district governor stated that the Washington Rotary Club had right now the largest program of community service of any club in the district and stated that one of the high purposes of the organization was for members to make their home city a better place by reason of their having lived there.

At the conclusion of Governor Miller's talk the club president, Billie Wilson expressed gratitude for his visit here and sincere thanks for the fine interpretation of Rotary purposes which he had given.

Previous to the main program three servicemen in uniform, guests of members, were introduced: They were S.-Sgt. Ronald Cornwell, just returned from Europe where he underwent some rough experience with an ordnance division; Pfc. John Anderson, also just back from Europe and wearing a purple heart emblem; Richard James, a representative of the American Red Cross field service, who has returned from New Guinea. All of these young men spoke briefly and each expressed his extreme happiness at being home again, even for a short time.

During the introduction of guests President Wilson introduced James Twining of Washington High School, as the club's new Junior Rotarian.

Back to Farming

It is betraying no business confidence, or starting any real estate boom with malice or profit, aforesaid, to report that rural real estate is active again. A typical city newspaper reports "a definite trend toward the purchase of small farms by persons of modest financial circumstances."

This is a rather familiar after-war phenomenon, but the present back-to-the-land movement seems likely to develop unusual strength. It isn't mere war-weariness. In one large mid-western area the war veterans are reported as less than one-tenth of the total movement. It seems to be mostly a feeling of being tired of city life, especially in the large and medium cities.

One odd feature of the situation is that many of the back-to-the-farm enthusiasts don't seem ever to have had any agricultural experience. They are just hankering to farm, and they want to start right away. From which fact it is easy to forecast that many of the enthusiasts may get into trouble. For farming of any kind is nothing to learn over-night. Success on a farm usually requires more knowledge, skill and persistence than many city jobs.

Tax Tips

It is good news that there will be reductions on next year's income taxes. But there would be nothing gained in raising a cry for still greater reductions than the Washington authorities are planning. For it is with federal taxes as it is with real estate taxes and mortgages—the more promptly and fully you pay them, the better off you are from year to year. And it is especially wise to get tax arrears paid up fully in times like these, when money flows freely.

The best way to get and keep taxes paid is to keep a fund in the bank for that purpose. It may be hard at first to accumulate, but it makes things easier in the long run.

An Eye Infection New Here

By HERMAN N. RUNDSEEN, M. D.

SINCE 1889, epidemics of eye diseases which are similar in nature to each other have been described. However, in 1938, it would appear that an epidemic of an eye condition called keratoconjunctivitis began in Malaya, spreading from Malaya to Hawaii, and then to the United States. Just how keratoconjunctivitis is spread is not known.

The signs and symptoms of the disease are like those of any other acute inflammation of the lining membrane over the eyeball. In the first stage there is a feeling as if something is in the eye with moderate itching and burning. The upper lid becomes swollen and the lining membrane is reddened and congested. The eye often feels enlarged and many of the patients complain of pain and discomfort on moving the eyeball.

After about two days the condition becomes worse. The redness and swelling increase and the lymph glands in front of the ear enlarge. At this time, also, there may be symptoms affecting the nose and throat with a feeling of scratchiness in the throat. In some cases, actual inflammation of the throat has been noted. Watering of the eyes occurs and often the tears are bloodstained. Frequently, there are small hemorrhages into the lining membrane of the eye.

In the next stage of keratoconjunctivitis, there may be changes in the front part of the eyeball or cornea. This causes some blurring of the eyesight, and some pain or discomfort when the eyes are exposed to light. The cornea may be so damaged that scars form on it which means that the light rays passing into the eye will be obstructed.

Up to the present no treatment which is particularly effective has been found for keratoconjunctivitis. A number of things have been tried such as sulfathiazole ointment and penicillin. Another germ-killing substance known as tyrothricin has also been used.

Doctor Alton E. Braley of New York City tried the use of convalescent serum on a number of patients, but found that it also was not effective. Convalescent serum is blood serum taken from patients who have recovered from the eye infection.

It would appear that a great deal further study of keratoconjunctivitis is necessary. It is probable that it is caused by a virus, that is, an organism so small that it can pass through the openings in a porcelain filter. Persons with this condition must take care not to spread it to others, as it is possible that it is contagious.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. H.: Would you please tell me what a cystoscopy treatment is?
Answer: Cystoscopy refers to an examination of the bladder through an instrument known as a cystoscope. This is a tube with lights which makes it possible to look directly into the bladder.

I. S.: In the diabetic diet, must a person watch out for a vitamin deficiency?

Answer: A vitamin deficiency may occur in persons using a diet for diabetes but will not develop if the diet is kept properly balanced. In some instances it may be advisable to employ vitamin preparations which the physician will prescribe.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

BELINDA's reference to her mother made Sandra instinctively drop a sympathetic arm about the child's shoulders. As quickly she took it away. The expression on Belinda's face was not one of yearning; it was one of absolute gloating. However, it faded, while Sandra gazed with renewed interest at her own transformation.

"This is a pretty dress, Miss Edwards." Those cool, drawn words coming from Belinda, Adams were the same as a flowery speech from someone else. Her bling brown eyes met those of the red-haired woman, in the mirror.

"And you're a very pretty girl. Just as I said you were." This time Belinda did not answer with rude declarations. She just blushed and watched Sandra fit expertly shaped cotton pads into the shoulders of the plaid dress. Their thickness relieved the child's too-thin appearance, adding both poise and jauntyness.

"Do you think—" Belinda's words faltered. "Do you think I look almost 13 in this dress?" "I think you look almost 14," fibbed Sandra. She wished she dared ask the child to define the strange and unattractive expression that had been on her face when she mentioned her mother.

Instead, she kept silent and began experimenting with the girl's long braids, looping them across the back, then across the top of that small dark head. Finally she undid the braids completely and let all that hair hang loosely about Belinda's shoulders. It had been so tightly braided that it held the waviness of the old type "waterfall" and was particularly becoming to the little girl's quaint beauty.

She said to Sandra: "This is the first time anyone has combed my hair except Brody—that is, he used to. Of course now I do it myself. That's why I wear it in braids. It is easy—especially when a person doesn't have curly hair."

"Don't worry about curly hair, Belinda. Dampen yours and braid it tightly every night, then brush it in the morning and you'll have your friends with curls envious."

Belinda gave an uncertain shake of the head, as if that were an inconceivable dream. All the same, she kept gazing at herself with rapt admiration. She seemed dazed. Not Sandra. She had improved so many with her knowledge that nothing could surprise her—nothing except failure to make someone attractive. That would really surprise her.

She stuck dark combs above Belinda's ears, then motioned her to the full-length mirror in the hallway. Those snapping brown eyes traveled slowly from the top of her head to her feet.

She groaned. "My shoes, Miss

Edwards. My shoes!" There they were, those horrid criss-cross ones. Sandra's heart flipped over, then behaved. Quickly she went to her closet and came back with a pair of tan suede walking shoes. Pumps with low heels. She dropped to her knees and hurriedly unbuckled the hideous strapped shoes.

Belinda stepped into the tan suede pumps. But she was not pleased. "They're almost my size. A tiny bit loose—but not enough."

She was, Sandra realized, ashamed because her feet were the size of a grown woman's. Sandra fibbed a second time. "They are too tight for me, Belinda. They kill me. Really they do."

Belinda seemed ready to argue the matter, but at that moment Spenser came into the living room.

"I've been nice long enough," he yelled. "Blast it all, you can't keep a chap out of his own lodgings forever—" Belinda now stepped into full view and, for the first time since she had known him, Sandra saw the eyes of her British charge actually bulge. He said to Belinda: "I say, you—" He whirled and addressed Sandra instead. "I say, Sandra, she looks different, doesn't she?"

"Ummm," she conceded casually. It seemed Belinda also was going to adhere to the no-speaking status.

Ignoring Spenser, she said: "Thank you for everything, Miss Edwards. I'm going now." And then, just as she got alongside Spenser, she said: "Isn't it wonderful my birthday cake has coconut-marshmallow icing? That's my favorite kind."

"How did you find out?" he accused. "It's supposed to be a secret."

"It was until you came in," Belinda zipped through the door. As Sandra stepped to the door, looking Spenser, she said: "Thank you for everything, Miss Edwards. I'm going now."

Until the ranchowner's daughter had gone Sandra was unaware of the tension she had endured during the past 30 minutes. Now that it was over she found herself shaking as she so often had those last days in Chicago.

Spenser was not watching Belinda now. He was watching his guardian. "You'd better have a bit of a nap," he advised. "You look done in."

"It's so ridiculous to be tired from putting shoulder pads into a dress."

Spenser was not a stubborn child now. He was his other self, that person who bossed Sandra in an adult way. He was herding her toward her bedroom.

"I'll call you in time for dinner, Sandra. You'd do well to remember why you came west. It was for your own good. Not Belinda's."

Despite her shaking, the red-haired girl fell asleep in a very short time. She dreamed. Dreadful dreams. Gordon Adams giving his small daughter pair after pair of boots. Belinda, at her birthday table, in Lewis and a crumpled cowboy shirt. Her own face, not Spenser's sticky with coconut-marshmallow icing.

Sandra awoke with a start, feeling that stickiness on her cheek. Spenser was sitting on the side of her bed. The coconut-marshmallow icing was Tex, on her pillow, kissing her lavishly. He was a ludicrous sight. None of the characteristics of an Irish setter were yet his nor would they be for several months. He was simply a drab, brownish puppy. Around his neck was an enormous birthday card which he now began to fight, threatening it with babyish growls.

"Definitely a watchdog, Sandra." "Oh yes," laughed the girl, feeling peaceful once more.

Spenser defended the puppy further. "He was the first to bark. The woman told us so."

Sandra decided it was fortunate he was going to give away the dog at the birthday dinner; otherwise his attachment would grow until he could not bear to be so generous.

When Spenser and Sandra entered the ranch house living room Belinda's snapping brown eyes lighted instantly on the dog, nestling in the British boy's arms. She deliberately turned her back; it presented a formidable barrier to any friendship.

"Happy birthday, Belinda," he cried out as he stepped around her and plumped the baby setter into her arms.

The rigidity in her back dissolved. She turned around and, for one horrible second, it appeared she was going to cry.

To avert that Sandra stepped to the big reading table that now held, instead of magazines, all Belinda's gifts.

"Show me all your presents, Belinda."

Still clutching the dog, Belinda began pointing out gifts, naming the donors. Brody, Hank, Penny, all the cowpunchers. Estela's fancy candy. Things from schoolmates.

"You knocked this off the table," Spenser retrieved a stiff white envelope. It was sealed. "Why don't you open this birthday greeting, Belinda?"

"Why should I?" she asked disinterestedly. "It's just a check from my mother. She sends me one every year."

Washington at a Glance

WASHINGTON—Your Capital in Peacetime:

The end of the war has brought about no change in the scarcity of hotel rooms in Washington. If you must visit your nation's capital, be prepared to take a hotel room story home with you. M. F. Bannell, of New York, representative of Pan-American Airways, did.

Bannell was staying at the Hay-Adams. Notified that his five days were up he said a word or two and would have said more but he managed to talk the management of another hotel, the Washington, into taking him in.

Checking out of the Hay-Adams, Bannell recalled he had left something in his room and hurried back up stairs, only to find the new tenant was an old friend.

"To think that I should be moved out of my room for you," Bannell moaned.

"Don't blame me. I had to go somewhere," said his friend. "My five days were up and I was just evicted from the Washington."

The friends decided to have a tall one on that and set out for the taproom—at the Statler.

In the loud clamor over discharge inequities for the sailors and soldiers, the plight of many men who wear stripes, bars, leaves or eagles has been overlooked completely.

Two days after Pearl Harbor, 44-year-old Dr. Blank kissed his lucrative Baltimore practice goodbye, and offered his services to the medical corps.

He served one year in the hospital in a base training camp in the south, another at a desert training camp in Arizona, two hospital in England (not considered in a combat zone).

Home on his first furlough in all that time, the lieutenant-colonel doctor came to Washington the other day to pick up what he thought was to be his requested discharge.

Instead, he got orders to report to a base hospital for occupation troops in Germany.

If you think that isn't tough, consult your family physician—if you still have one.

It is such cases that are kindling wrath in Congress. Already legislation is threatened to force the Army to return a portion of its physicians to civilian life.

George Abbott, the Broadway entrepreneur, is probably the only producer on record who can take credit for "discovering" an assistant secretary of state.

Some years ago, John Monks Jr. and Fred Finkelhoff persuaded Abbott to produce a little opus titled "Brother Rat." It had to do with some high-jinks at Virginia Military Institute and the authors called in a VMI classmate to double-check for technicalities.

Abbott, well known for his discoveries of youthful talent, picked the classmate as a certain-to-succeed young man and hired him on the spot as one of the Abbott press agents.

There is no record that the young man made any thumping success as a Broadway drummer, but he's doing all right now. He's 33-year-old Frank McCarthy, the newly appointed assistant secretary of state, who will have charge of reorganizing the department for Secretary James F. Byrnes.

Business and Professional Women Endorse Hospital for County at Dinner Meeting

Committee of Five Men Discuss Plans for Hospital on BPW Program Presented by News Service Committee

More than fifty women of the Washington C. H. Business and Professional Women's Club voted to endorse the proposed Fayette County Memorial Hospital after a discussion period at their Tuesday night dinner meeting which was held at the Country Club. The endorsement, read by Miss Ruth Sexton, was approved and will be sent to Mr. Ralph Nisley, chairman of the county hospital committee.

The program, presented by the news service committee, with Miss Helen Slavens as chairman, was opened after a delicious two-course dinner was served.

Proposed Hospital Discussed

With the announcement that a large share of the program of the meeting was to be given over to a discussion of the need of a modern hospital in Fayette County, Miss Helen Slavens, program chairman, stated that a group representing the general volunteer hospital committee for the proposed Fayette County Memorial Hospital, which is to be voted upon at the coming general election on November 6, was present and would be heard. She introduced Forest F. Tipton of the Record-Herald which sponsored the first survey of needs for such an institution in this county and he in turn introduced Ralph Nisley, county hospital committee chairman, Probate Judge Rell G. Allen who has charge of the organization division in the campaign, Russell W. Rutledge, field representative for Central Hospital Service in Ohio and Mr. Hugh Blair, director of University Hospital in Columbus and professor of hospital administration for Ohio State University.

Each man commented briefly and at the conclusion of the talks it was indicated that questions regarding the proposition would be welcomed and answered if possible.

The members present showed a keen interest in the discussion and presented several important, timely and interesting questions which were answered, developed and discussed at length by those present.

Mr. Blair who made the original survey in Fayette County as to hospital needs and who helped with many suggestions as to the plans drawn by Samuel Hannaford and Sons, Cincinnati architects and hospital specialists, brought out many interesting points from his years of experience as a hospital administrator and covered many points as to hospital administration operations as a result of questions asked.

Mr. Rutledge in his general discussion of "Why A Hospital Is Needed In Fayette County" mentioned among other comments the following:

"The public welfare demands that every individual be restored to reasonably good health at the earliest possible time. This has become a vital economic factor in the life of every family and community."

"Good health is essential to our well being. Recent rejections by our draft boards are proof positive that we have not yet reached perfection in caring for the health of our citizens."

"In spite of all the work done to prevent disease, we still have people who become critically ill. The primary purpose of a hospital is to treat the critically ill. When Benjamin Franklin established the first hospital on this continent in the 1750's his purpose was to treat the critically ill. Since that time the general hospital has become a storehouse of vast skill, knowledge, and scientific equipment designed to prevent, treat and cure disease. The general hospital is now looked upon as a health center, and rightly it should be. In 1940 one out of every 10 persons went to a hospital. In Columbus last year, one out of every 9.5 persons went to a hospital. In 1940 for the first time one-half of all the babies born in this county were born in hospitals. In 1944, 2 out of every 3 babies born in the United States were born in hospitals. The appreciation and use of hospitals is increasing year by year. Every two seconds somewhere in this country, somebody goes to a hospital."

"Members of the medical profession are becoming increasingly dependent upon hospitals in assembling the tools necessary to practice good medicine. Why waste a doctor's time doing a complete physical examination of a chest only to miss a condition which a good X-ray examination would reveal in one-tenth the professional time? A modern hospital has this equipment."

"Forty percent of our medical profession is now in the armed services. Except in extreme cases of battle line duty they have all the modern equipment they need. Those doctors like such equipment. The community with a modern hospital such as you contemplate will have a much better chance to get the needed new doctors than will the community without one."

"What will some of the twelve million servicemen and service-women who have had an abundance of modern scientific equipment available in the armed forces think about locating in a community that does not have a hospital such as you want to build?

"The size of your proposed hospital here and the amount of money you expect to invest in it is ideal. Hindsight is better than foresight. The planners of your hospital had foresight. With my hindsight I examined the Carter Report, which is the basis for the present hospital expansion program in Columbus. I also studied carefully pages 10 and 11 of Bulletin No. 3 issued by the Duke Endowment of Charlotte, N. C. entitled 'The Small General Hospital' and the only conclusion I can reach is that you have chosen the perfect size for a hospital in Fayette County. You have neither overbuilt nor underbuilt. You have also planned economically. The national average for investment in hospital facilities is $41.92 per capita; the investment in Columbus is $25.81 per capita; your proposed investment per capita will be $18.01 for a fine modern well equipped hospital."

Another important announcement made by Miss Sexton during the business meeting concerned the October 16 meeting at the Country Club when members will entertain their bosses at the annual bosses' night dinner party. Speakers will be Mr. Robert

The District Business and Professional Women's meeting will be held in Middletown on October 21, Miss Sexton announced, and urged members to attend. An invitation to attend the Miamisburg Club's meeting during national B.P.W. week, on October 10, was read by Miss Sexton, and a number signed their intentions of accepting. It will be held at the Wishing Well Inn, near Centerville.

Mrs. D. H. Devins was called upon to give a report of the Chillicothe club's charter night dinner, held last week. Her report was excellent.

Miss Helen Slavens graphically reported on the state presidents' meeting attended by herself and Miss Sexton at the Neil House, Columbus, on September eighth and ninth.

The meeting then adjourned.

GI GETS PREFERENCE IN OHIO STATE JOBS

Lausche Answers Cincinnati Veterans Complaint

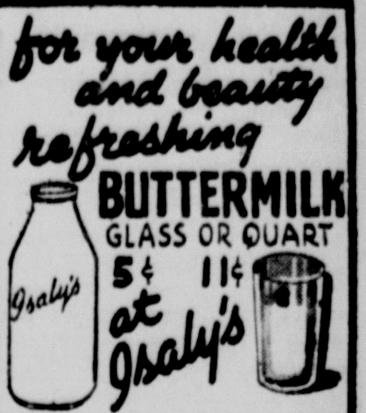

COLUMBUS, Sept. 19—(AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche insists returning veterans will be given preference in filling state jobs and no GI will be denied his rights by the state of Ohio.

He made the statement in reply to charges by Paul W. Ruppard Jr., Cincinnati district supervisor for the state liquor control board who claimed an order transferring him to Mansfield was a political bribe and a "flagrant attempt to violate the GI Bill of Rights."

"I am certain," the governor declared, "that whatever is being done by Mr. Robert M. Sohngen, director of the department of liquor control, is in full recognition of full Civil Service and GI rights and that fair treatment will be accorded by Sohngen to all employees of the state, regardless of political affiliations. My instructions have been to give all returning soldiers preference in the new hirings by the state."

Cardinals Crowd Cubs As They Go for 4th Flag

(By The Associated Press)
Billy Southworth's tattered Cardinals continue to act like they own the Chicago Cubs whose first place dignity they have ruffled in 14 of 16 meetings.

With 10 games to play, four against their "cousins" from the Windy City, St. Louis has a good fighting chance to make the grade to a fourth straight flag despite the two-game disadvantage in the win and loss columns.

Baseball followers regard the Red Birds a better bet to catch

Chicago than Washington is to close the gap on Detroit even though the Tigers' lead is only a game and a half after yesterday's 12-5 loss to the Nats. The Senators are running out of games with only five to go and no more with the Bengals.

Southworth has either George Docking or Art Lopatka ready to go after the Cubs tonight.

Charley (Red) Barrett, the fellow who was "thrown in" in the deal that sent Mort Cooper to Boston, hung up his 22nd victory in last night's 3-2 shade of the Bruins' Claude Passeau. That's 10 more than Barrett ever won in the majors before and more than he ever snared since he left Muskegon in 1937.

Sportsman's Park housed its largest night turnout of the Cardinals' season, 22,174, to watch Southworth's gang overcome a two-run advantage the Cubs punched through the makeshift infield in the first inning and come on to win. Whitey Kurowski drove home all three runs. The Detroit-Washington series finale was a nightmarish ball game, played on the muddy turf of Griffith Stadium.

Dizzy Trout was driven to cover in the first inning when the Senators scored four runs but, after they had added another in the third, the Tigers flattened Walt Masterson with five to tie in the sixth. The Nats then opened up on George Caster, Al Newhouse and Zeb Eaton for good of four in the seventh and three in the eighth to tie it. Caster was charged with his first loss since

Take Your Pick

Since the pennant contenders won't decide the major league races for themselves, this corner will cover all four in the annual review by positions and let you decide for yourself which you like.

First base: Rudy York, Tigers—Rudy's slugging made him the Tiger first baseman and, to everyone's surprise, he set two major league fielding records at that position. Can break up any game and he did it once in the 1940 series although he hit only 231.

Joe Kuhel, Senators—Rudy's opposite: A fancy outfielder but only has touched the 300 mark at bat three times in his 15 major league seasons. Phil Cavaretta, Cubs—The "big wonder" of the 1935 Cubs. Phil hit only 125 in his first World Series. Three years later he belted Yankee pitching for 462. Never batted 300 until last season and now he tops the national league above the 350 mark. Ray Sanders, Cardinals—Ray has earned a World Series cut in each of his three big league seasons. He'll be disappointed if he doesn't make it again. League-leading fielder at first in 1944. His specialty is hitting doubles.

Cleaning The Cuff
Bob Goldstein, Spokane's contribution to the all-American Boys Baseball game has decided to enter the U. of Washington after reports had circulated that he had an offer from Illinois that was "too good to turn down." The only civilian on Colorado College's starting football team, blocking back Johnny Steele, is a discharged soldier. George (Wetwah) Marshall already has signed for his Redskins to train at Los Angeles next fall. Week's best line (by Dick Young, N. Y. News): "The hit became a double because Danny Garrella was threading his way through those imaginary trees he carries with him in left field."

Lausche, a Democrat, considered whom he should appoint to serve the remainder of the Cleveland Republican's term, which expires at the end of 1946.

Plenty of long hits and a completely argument-free baseball game was played between Good Hope and Madison Mills at Madison Mills Tuesday afternoon. The score was 8-4 and the Millers were the winners.

Good Hope went to work without its regular pitcher on the mound. Dawes, who played first base instead, had an injured right hand that wouldn't permit him to pitch.

Anderson and Dawes of Good Hope each connected for a triple and their teammate, Dawes, batted out two triples. He tried to stretch one into a home run, however, and was put out at base.

Schwaigert, Miller pitcher, slammed out a long homer in the left field with two on base in the first inning. Nance and Gibeau, also of Madison Mills, each had a triple.

Jeffersonville Wins, 10-4, from Bloomingburg

Jeffersonville's baseball combination downed a Bloomingburg High School squad 10-4 in a game played on the Jeffersonville diamond Tuesday afternoon. The Jeff boys piled up eight runs in the first inning without much trouble. Both teams capitalized on hits but the Burgers weren't able to get into the groove until the last half of the game and by that time it was too late to do much about the long lead the Jeff boys had.

Simmons, Jeff hurler, struck out ten of the opposition's men while Parrett and Morris, Bloomingburg pitcher, accounted for three strike-outs each.

Painters at Work Near Field House Leave Big Letters

Circle Avenue and the sidewalk leading up to the field house in Gardner Park are decorated with huge swaths of white paint, proclaiming "CHS." "Yea, CHS." "CHS" stands for Chillicothe High School, the team the Blue Lions meet here Friday night.

The letters, some of them a yard high and painted with strokes a foot thick, appeared overnight on the street and the sidewalk. Presumably they were put there by Chillicotheans, for school authorities here said no WHS students painted them.

Anyway, the inscriptions are there and probably will stay there until automobile tires or shoe soles obliterate them.

Plan for Navy

Postwar control of the seas with a navy capable of "delivering atomic bomb attacks," was urged today by Navy Secretary James V. Forrestal before the House naval committee.

Testifying on legislation to determine the size of the peacetime navy, Forrestal said the key to future victory and to the freedom of this country "will be in the control of the seas and of the skies above them."

He recommended:

An active fleet, ready for battle, consisting of approximately 300 modern major combatant vessels including 11 battleships, 15 aircraft carriers including three 45,000-tonners, 21 escort carriers, 20 heavy and large cruisers, 29 light cruisers, 176 destroyers, 40 destroyer escorts and 90 submarines in addition to supporting craft.

All the battleships, carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines would be ships completed since 1940.

A laid-up reserve of seven old battleships, 22 carriers built since 1940, 58 escort carriers, 14 heavy cruisers, 19 light cruisers, 191 destroyers, 257 destroyer escorts, 110 submarines and supporting craft.

"A ready reserve" of 100 additional major ships.

Forrestal and Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations, were called as principal witnesses at the hearing.
